

The Wisconsin No call list law is working fine. Don't allow the Banking industry or anyone else to water it down and create gaps and holes in which businesses would quickly exploit. The law was created out of need and now those businesses that were responsible for the cause of its creation want to find a way around it. It was their behavior that created the law so let them live with it.